Two Escaped Reformatory Prisoners Nabbed By Police In City

With the arrest of Robert McClarren, 18, Circleville, and Frank Payne, also 18, of New Athens, both escaped prisoners from the Boys Industrial farm at Lancaster, Circleville police have cleared up a series of robberies that have been perpetrated in the city the past two weeks.

The boys were arrested at 1 a. m. Thursday by Officers William McCrady and Fred Fitzpatrick, and were brought to the city prison.

A series of robberies, including the theft of autos has harassed the police department for two weeks, along with considerable petty stealing, and with the arrest of the youths in the south end of the city shortly after midnight this is expected to cease.

The boys did their nefarious work under the cover of darkness and made their get-away, hiding during the day sometimes along the river and also at the former home of McClarren in the south end of the city.

The stolen plunder was found secreted in three places. In a boat near Westfall, in a barn owned by David S. Dunlap near Haysville, and also in a barn owned by a Mr. Lowery in the south end of the city.

The youths confessed to the officers a series of burglaries, which have been going on for some time. They escaped from the reform farm at Lancaster July 2. They saw a Ford coupe parked near the farm, and made way with it and later abandoned the car in Fairfield-co.

They returned to the same residence the following night but were frightened away when a burglar alarm went off. They also burglarized the ice box of Taylor McCrady on Walnut-st. stealing some pop and other articles.

They admitted stealing the Hudson car of Dr. E. R. Bales, riding to Lancaster and past the State farm, just homelick to see their former home.

This car was recovered by the sheriff's department last Monday.

The Charles Bass filling station was next entered. This was last Saturday night. They took 40 bottles of pop. Meats store in the south end was entered the same night and oranges, bananas and apples were taken. While they were driving the stolen car of Herbert Snyder Sunday night they broke into Pherston's store, where they secured a hunting coat, flashlight's watches, knives, batteries soap shirts and groceries, making a big haul.

CALLES RULE MAY CONTINUE OVER MEXICO

President, However, Bowled By Grief Over Assassination of Obregon.

By GESFORD F. FINE
United Press Staff Correspondent.
MEXICO CITY, July 19.—The capital impressively has paid final honors to Alvaro Obregon, president-elect who was assassinated Wednesday, and today leaders turned to the task of selecting some one to succeed to the presidency of the republic.

The permanent congressional commission—representing the adjourned congress—meets today and it is likely the matter of Obregon's successor will arise. The warrior who came out of the north to rule the country for one four year term and who was elected July 1 for another term, had not officially been proclaimed the president-elect.

This complicated matters and there was likelihood that President Plutarco Calles would rule the July 1, no election.

Calles at this moment seems the logical successor to Obregon's place as the next leader, but the president, bowed by grief at the sudden assassination of his friend, confronted by holding Mexico away from any strife that might arise through Obregon's death and determined to punish all those responsible for killing the general, remains silent on the presidency issue.

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, July 19.—Police patrolled the streets of all border cities, and garrisons were held alert today, as Sonora awaited the arrival of the body of General Alvaro Obregon, assassinated president-elect of Mexico.

While no outbreaks of any consequence occurred, the action of rebels in derailing and attacking a train near Rincon hunted that other trouble might follow in the wake of the death of the Mexican leader.

Several deaths, due to the heat and a number of drownings, were recorded.

Temperatures reached as high as 92 in the Cincinnati area and 90 in Kentucky and West Virginia.

Central Ohio temperatures ranged from 82 to 90, while the Great Lakes region sweltered with temperatures of from 80 to 87. Thunder storms tonight or tomorrow were expected to bring general relief.

This was recommended to be passed at the next legislature. It is thought that this is the only equitable way to raise a sufficient sum of money to meet the demands and expenditures of the board of health.

QUESTION OF WATER PURITY BEFORE BODY

Prominent Citizens Demand Investigation Into Quality of Product.

Severe criticism of the present quality of the water being served to the consumer in Circleville, by the Ohio Water Service company, was launched by a representative class of citizens at the meeting of city council, Wednesday night, when the rate fight was taken up.

H. S. Heffner said the city was interested in getting a good quality of water along with cheaper rates and that it has not been getting the right kind of water in the past.

He mentioned the fact that the C. & O. R. put down an 12-inch pipe for water on the Crites farm, formerly the Ludwig farm, one mile and a half south of the city, and that it has never been able to exhaust this supply of pure water.

It was also said the C. & O. R. uses more water there than the entire city of Circleville.

He advocated changing the waterworks plant here or compelling the company to furnish a better grade of water, one that is absolutely pure.

E. C. Elliott, New York, vice-president of the Ohio Water Service company, contented that recently tests had been made of the water used in Circleville and that it was absolutely pure.

H. M. Crites, who served on city council for 16 years and is very familiar with civic affairs, also flayed the quality of water being given the city consumer and said some action should be taken.

He also mentioned the C. & O. R. water supply and said the Ohio Water Service company could operate much cheaper at such a location than by getting water from its present source, which is not a good one.

Colonel C. E. Groce also made a few remarks, pertinent to the same conditions and the rate.

Attorney Charles Dresbach said the rate question should be taken up first, that the condition of water could always be controlled.

G. W. MILLIRONS TAKEN BY DEATH AT HOME OF SON

Veteran Railroader Who Recently Retired Had Been Ill For a Year.

George Washington Millirons, 75, died at the home of his son J. E. Millirons, 335 E. Mount-st. at 8:30 o'clock Thursday morning. He had been ill a year with complications.

The deceased was born in Scioto Co. Aug. 22, 1853. He married Miss Sarah Bikenbaster, March 19, 1876. She died some years ago. Mr. Millirons retired from a railroad service of 34 years with the Norfolk and Western railroad, some 12 years ago.

A son and daughter survive. They are Mrs. Florence Noggle and J. Edward Millirons of this city, also four grandchildren. Miss Agnes Noggle, Donald, Kathryn and Earl M. Millirons. He was a member of the Methodist church and the last of his family.

Some Points!

There are certain fundamental points that need to be clarified on any issue when that issue has a bearing on the welfare of a lot of people.

The public water supply of Circleville is an issue that has a bearing on everyone in Circleville who hasn't a drilled well, and very few have.

After considering the session that City Council held Wednesday night with officials of the Ohio Water Service Company and a number of public-spirited citizens who were civically interested, there are certain points worthy of discussion and certain questions that come to the surface for the need of air.

1. Why does E. C. Elliott, of New York City, vice president of the Ohio Water Service Company, apparently seem to know so little about the affairs of his company here, according to his own "confession," such as its earnings, the kind of water being supplied to the consumer, and many other facts which practically any business man would know about his business?

2. The Ohio Water Service Company is a company that recently took over the local waterworks plant. During five years the AVERAGE CONSUMER here has paid 95 cents per 1,000 gallons of water consumed. When asked if books for the past five years on the earnings this rate has netted the company which the Ohio Water Service Company bought the plant from recently, were available, Mr. Elliott replied, "They belong to the other company. We don't know how much the old company earned under this rate, and we haven't been here long enough to know just what we are doing." Do big companies like the Ohio Water Service Company buy more water plants blindly, not knowing what they have been earning and not having a knowledge of their company books?

3. Mention was made that Circleville's water rate "might" not be higher than rates in other cities because some other cities were paying a service charge, while it was assumed the 95 cents per 1,000 gallons of water used in this city took the place of that service charge. But the Ohio Utilities Commission informed a representative of The Circleville Herald that Circleville had the SECOND HIGHEST RATE IN OHIO! What are the production costs of water here that they should be the second highest in the state?

4. If telephone calls, letters and personal visits to this office mean anything, the people of Circleville want action NOW on this important question. It is not a question that should wait until it is "cool in November." The issue is decidedly warm right now, and a little warmth on a lot of civic projects in Circleville won't hurt anyone. Speed up every action NOW.

5. When Attorneys Charles Dresbach and C. A. Leist, representing the city in this case, and City Solicitor Paul Adkins meet in a private conference with officials of the Ohio Water Service company, Aug. 2, they should be given the privilege of looking into the books of the companies controlling the waterworks situation here for the past five years when the present rate has been in effect. These books can possibly be procured.

6. We are interested to know just how many consumers of Circleville ever get out of the class of water user who gets the 42-cent rate which the company (Turn to page two, please)

PASSENGERS ESCAPE FATE IN BOAT BLAST

NORFOLK, Va., July 19.—None the worse for their experiences, about 100 passengers of the Pennsylvania railroad steamer Maryland, which was made helpless by an explosion of Cape Charles last night, were safe aboard the steamer New York today.

The passengers were transferred with little difficulty from the Maryland to the New York, which rushed to the stricken steamer's aid from Norfolk.

No one was injured by the explosion Pennsylvania railroad officials here announced.

Tugs have been dispatched to tow the Maryland into port.

WILL ATTEMPT TO LAY FACTS BEFORE CITY

Council Then Expected To Meet With Company and Fix New Rates Here

The first concrete step in the fight inaugurated by The Circleville Herald to lower the water rates of the city of Circleville to a figure in keeping with other rates in other cities of Ohio, was taken by city council at a recess meeting after its regular session, Wednesday night.

It was decided that the city council's representatives, Attorneys Charles Dresbach and C. A. Leist and City Solicitor Paul E. Adkins, will meet with officials of the Ohio Water Service company on August 2, when an attempt will be made to arrive at a basis of rate-charging in the city.

The report of this city legal committee of three with all facts pertaining to the situation will then be submitted to city council, a special session of which will be called immediately to establish the new rate schedule.

Thus has Circleville moved toward a lower rate schedule which it is expected will be a saving to every water consumer in the city of Circleville.

A crowd of interested citizens was in attendance at the session in spite of the hot weather.

Among those who spoke urging better water in the city as well as a lower rate were H. M. Crites, Colonel C. E. Groce, H. S. Heffner, Attorneys C. A. Leist and Charles Dresbach, and Norman W. Ralston, editor of The Herald.

Waterworks officials present were: E. C. Elliott, New York, vice-president of the Ohio Water Service company; W. A. Darke, New York, superintendent of operations; O. D. Farquhar, manager of the Washington C. H. plant; and Harry B. Denman, local manager of the Ohio Water Service company.

Mr. Elliott, speaking before council, declared that his company was an operating company and not brokers.

"We have operated this company under a schedule of rates which will produce sufficient revenue to pay operating expenses, maintenance charges, taxes, and for a sufficient amount of depreciation and to pay a reasonable dividend on investments," he declared.

When questioned as to whether the books owned by the old company before the Ohio Water Service company took over the waterworks here recently were obtainable so the city could determine what profit has been made under the present rate, Mr. Elliott said this could not be done.

"The old books belong to the old company; they are not our property," he said.

The waterworks official also said that he could furnish very little information pertaining to what the local company was earning under the present rate schedule because the new company had not been in operation long enough.

At present local consumers are paying 95 cents per 1,000 gallons for the first 2,000 gallons or fraction thereof of water consumed for the first quarter. For the next 2,500 gallons or less PER DAY, at the rate of 42 cents per 1,000 gallons. For the next 3,500 gallons or portions thereof per day, at 20 cents per 1,000 gallons.

CALLES RULE MAY CONTINUE OVER MEXICO

President, However, Bowed By Grief Over Assassination of Obregon.

By GESFORD F. FINE
United Press Staff Correspondent.
MEXICO CITY, July 19.—The capital impressively has paid final honors to Alvaro Obregon, president-elect who was assassinated Wednesday, and today leaders turned to the task of selecting some one to succeed to the presidency of the republic.

The permanent congressional commission—representing the adjourned congress—meets today and it is likely the matter of Obregon's successor will arise. The warrior who came out of the north to rule the country for one four year term and who was elected July 1 for another term, had not officially been proclaimed the president-elect.

This complicated matters and there was likelihood that President Plutarco Calles would rule the July 1, no election.

Calles at this moment seems the logical successor to Obregon's place as the next leader, but the president, bowed by grief at the sudden assassination of his friend, confronted by holding Mexico away from any strife that might arise through Obregon's death and determined to punish all those responsible for killing the general—remains silent on the presidency issue.

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, July 19.—Police patrolled the streets of all border cities, and garrisons were held alert today, as Sonora awaited the arrival of the body of General Alvaro Obregon, assassinated president-elect of Mexico.

While no outbreaks of any consequence occurred, the action of rebels in derailing and attacking a train near Rincon hinted that other trouble might follow in the wake of the death of the Mexican leader.

CITY AND STATE SWELTERING IN SUMMER'S HEAT

Temperature Climbs Past 90 Degree Mark In Circleville Today.

Circleville, the state and nation sweltered today in the intense heat of mid-July.

Dr. Hartley E. Clarke, government weather observer, reported a high temperature of 93 Wednesday with the temperature soaring above that mark by noon today.

Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia sweltered today in one of the most oppressive heat waves of the summer.

Several deaths, due to the heat, and a number of drownings, were recorded.

Temperatures reached as high as 92 in the Cincinnati area and down in Kentucky and West Virginia.

Central Ohio temperatures ranged from 82 to 90, while the Great Lakes region sweltered with temperatures of from 80 to 87.

Thunder storms tonight or early tomorrow were expected to bring general relief.

Rain fell in Northern Ohio last night, but a high pressure wave made the heat more intense.

Edward Sullivan, 17, Lakewood High school student, was drowned in Lake Erie near Rocky River.

Joseph Teaser, 15, died in Cleveland from the heat.

Columbus reported the death of Mrs. Lulu Gordon Canning, 50, superinduced by the heat there.

HEALTH BOARDS HOPE TO RAISE NEEDED REVENUE

Circleville and County Boards With Others Hope For Finances.

The State Board of Health has issued a bulletin giving the rates of expenditure of official funds for public health per capita and also for $1 of valuation.

Pickaway-co. outside of Circleville with an area of 490 square miles, with a population of 18,739 and a tax duplicate of $2,059,835 expended for public health last year the sum of $5,632.88 or .305 per capita per dollar, or 33.1 per square mile.

Circleville with a population of 7,282, with a tax duplicate of $12,225,150, spent on public health the sum of $1,517.66 or per capita .208 or .12 on one dollar valuation.

In order to raise the health board revenue, a bill was recommended at a recent meeting of all the district health boards of the state held in Columbus, to have a per capita tax bill. This was recommended to be passed at the next legislature. It is thought that this is the only equitable way to raise a sufficient sum of money to meet the demands and expenditures of the board of health.

QUESTION OF WATER PURITY BEFORE BODY

Prominent Citizens Demand Investigation Into Quality of Product.

Severe criticism of the present quality of the water being served to the consumer in Circleville, by the Ohio Water Service company, was launched by a representative class of citizens at the meeting of city council, Wednesday night, when the rate fight was taken up.

H. S. Heffner said the city was interested in getting a good quality of water along with cheaper rates and that it has not been getting the right kind of water in the past.

He mentioned the fact that the C. & O. R. R. put down an 12-inch pipe for water on the Crites farm, formerly the Ludwig farm, one mile and a half south of the city, and that it has never been able to exhaust this supply of pure water.

It was also said the C. & O. R. R. uses more water there than the entire city of Circleville.

He advocated changing the waterworks plant here or compelling the company to furnish a better grade of water, one that is absolutely pure.

E. C. Elliott, New York, vice-president of the Ohio Water Service company, contented that just recently tests had been made of the water used in Circleville and that it was absolutely pure.

H. M. Crites, who served on city council for 16 years and is very familiar with civic affairs, also flayed the quality of water being given the city consumer and said some action should be taken.

He also mentioned the C. & O. R. R. water supply and said the Ohio Water Service company could operate much cheaper at such a location than by getting water from its present source, which is not a good one.

Colonel C. E. Groce also made a few remarks, pertinent to the same conditions and the rate.

Attorney Charles Dresbach said the rate question should be taken up first, that the condition of water could always be controlled.

G. W. MILLIRONS TAKEN BY DEATH AT HOME OF SON

Veteran Railroader Who Recently Retired Had Been Ill For a Year.

The deceased was born in Scioto co. Aug. 22, 1855. He married Miss Sarah Bakenhaster, March 19, 1876. She died some years ago. Mr. Millirons retired from a railroad service of 34 years with the Norfolk and Western railroad, some 12 years ago.

A son and daughter survive. They are Mrs. Florence Noggle and J. Edward Millirons of this city; also four grandchildren, Miss Agnes Noggle, Donald, Katharine and Earl Millirons.

He was a member of the Methodist church and the last of his immediate family.

The funeral services will be held Saturday at the home of his son at 2:30 p. m. Rev. Sidney W. Hiles will officiate. Interment will be made in Forest cemetery under the direction of Mader and Ebert funeral directors.

YOUTH, 18, DROWNED

CLEVELAND, July 19.—Edward Sullivan, 18, Lakewood, was drowned last night while swimming in Lake Erie near Rocky river. He was a junior in Lakewood high school.

Sullivan was in the water with several companions when he became exhausted and called for help. Two of his friends attempted to aid him, but failed.

Some Points!

There are certain fundamental points that need to be clarified on any issue when that issue has a bearing on the welfare of a lot of people.

The public water supply of Circleville is an issue that has a bearing on everyone in Circleville who hasn't a drilled well, and very few have.

After considering the session that City Council held Wednesday night with officials of the Ohio Water Service Company and a number of public-spirited citizens who were civically interested, there are certain points worthy of discussion and certain questions that come to the surface for the need of air.

1. Why does E. C. Elliott, of New York City, vice president of the Ohio Water Service Company, apparently seem to know so little about the affairs of his company here, according to his own "confession," such as its earnings, the kind of water being supplied to the consumer, and many other facts which practically any business man would know about his business?

2. The Ohio Water Service Company is a company that recently took over the local waterworks plant. During five years the AVERAGE CONSUMER here has paid 95 cents per 1,000 gallons of water consumed. When asked if books for the past five years on the earnings this rate has netted the company which the Ohio Water Service Company bought the plant from recently, were available, Mr. Elliott replied, "They belong to the other company. We don't know how much the old company earned under this rate and we haven't been here long enough to know just what we are doing." Do big companies like the Ohio Water Service Company buy more water plants blindly, not knowing what they have been earning and not having a knowledge of their company books?

3. Mention was made that Circleville's water rate "might" not be higher than rates in other cities because some other cities were paying a service charge, while it was assumed the 95 cents per 1,000 gallons of water used in this city took the place of that service charge. But the Ohio Utilities Commission informed a representative of The Circleville Herald that Circleville had the SECOND HIGHEST RATE IN OHIO! What are the production costs of water here that they should be the second highest in the state?

4. If telephone calls, letters and personal visits to this office mean anything, the people of Circleville want action NOW on this important question. It is not a question that should wait until it is "cool in November." The issue is decided warm right now, and a little warmth on a lot of civic projects in Circleville won't hurt anyone. Speed up every action NOW.

5. When Attorneys Charles Dresbach and C. A. Leist, representing the city in this case, and City Solicitor Paul Adkins meet in a private conference with officials of the Ohio Water Service company, Aug. 2, they should be given the privilege of looking into the books of the companies controlling the waterworks situation here for the past five years when the present rate has been in effect. These books can possibly be procured.

6. We are interested to know just how many consumers of Circleville ever get out of the class of water user who gets the 42-cent rate which the company (Turn to page two, please)

PASSENGERS ESCAPE FATE IN BOAT BLAST

NOFOLK, Va., July 19.—None the worse for their experiences, about 100 passengers of the Pennsylvania railroad steamer Maryland, which was made helpless by an explosion off Cape Charles last night, were safe aboard the steamer New York today.

The passengers were transferred with little difficulty from the Maryland to the New York, which rushed to the stricken steamer's aid from Norfolk.

No one was injured by the explosion, Pennsylvania railroad officials here announced.

Tugs have been dispatched to tow the Maryland into port.

WILL ATTEMPT TO LAY FACTS BEFORE CITY

Council Then Expected To Meet With Company and Fix New Rates Here

The first concrete step in the fight inaugurated by The Circleville Herald to lower the water rates of the city of Circleville to a figure in keeping with other rates in other cities of Ohio, was taken by city council at a recess meeting after its regular session, Wednesday night.

It was decided that the city council's representatives, Attorneys Charles Dresbach and C. A. Leist and City Solicitor Paul E. Adkins, will meet with officials of the Ohio Water Service company on August 2, when an attempt will be made to arrive at a basis of rate-charging in the city.

The report of this city legal committee of three with all facts pertaining to the situation will then be submitted to city council, a special session of which will be called immediately to establish the new rate schedule.

Thus has Circleville moved toward a lower rate schedule which it is expected will be a saving to every water consumer in the city of Circleville.

A crowd of interested citizens was in attendance at the session in spite of the hot weather.

Among those who spoke urging better water in the city as well as a lower rate were H. M. Crites, Colonel C. E. Groce, H. S. Heffner, Attorneys C. A. Leist and Charles Dresbach, and Norman W. Ralston, editor of The Herald.

Waterworks officials present were: E. C. Elliott, New York, vice-president of the Ohio Water Service company; W. A. Darke, New York, superintendent of operations; O. D. Farquhar, manager of the Washington C. H. plant; and Harry B. Denman, local manager of the Ohio Water Service company.

Mr. Elliott, speaking before council, declared that his company was an operating company and not brokers.

"We have operated this company under a schedule of rates which will produce sufficient revenue to pay operating expenses, maintenance charges, taxes, and for a sufficient amount of depreciation and to pay a reasonable dividend on investments," he declared.

When questioned as to whether the books owned by the old company before the Ohio Water Service company took over the waterworks here recently were obtainable so the city could determine what profit has been made under the present rate, Mr. Elliott said this could not be done.

"The old books belong to the old company; they are not our property," he said.

The waterworks official also said that he could furnish very little information pertaining to what the local company was earning under the present rate schedule because the new company had not been in operation long enough.

At present local consumers are paying 95 cents per 1,000 gallons for the first 2,000 gallons or fraction thereof of water consumed for the first quarter. For the next 2,500 gallons or less PER DAY, at the rate of 42 cents per 1,000 gallons. For the next 3,500 gallons or portions thereof per day, at 20 cents per 1,000 gallons.

It has been contended that the AVERAGE WATER CONSUMER in Circleville is paying 95 cents per 1,000 gallons of water used because the AVERAGE WATER CONSUMER in the city is not using much over 2,000 gallons of water per quarter.

Mr. Elliott agreed to meet with the city's attorneys on August 2, and submit all his company records available and to attempt to arrive at a conclusion as to what the city considers a fair return on an investment, with a view to making a new water rate here.

TUNNEY TO FIGHT FOR PERCENTAGE AFTER HEENEY GO

SPECTACULAR, N. Y., July 19.—If Gene Tunney retains his heavyweight title against Ton Heenev in the Yankee stadium, New York, a week from tonight, it will be the last time he will receive a guaranteed purse.

The champion has agreed to fight for Tex Rickard next year on a strict percentage basis. Tunney refused to give out the exact amount of the percentage, but it was believed to be somewhere between 35 and 50 per cent of the gate.

Tunney will receive $525,000, win, or lose or draw, for 45 minutes' action in the ring next Thursday night. That $525,000 may be the last big guarantee Rickard will pay. The ticket sales for the Tunney-Heenev bout have not been exactly what Rickard would like for them to be and from now on the boxers are going to gamble with the promoter on the size of the purses.

Years of Service in MODEL T FORDS

Expenditure of few dollars may enable you to get thousands of miles from your old car

THE Model T Ford is still a great car. It led the motor industry for twenty years and it is used today by more people than any other automobile. More than eight million Model T Fords are in active service in city, town and country, and many of them can be driven for two, three and five more years and even longer at very small up-keep expense.

The cost of Model T parts and of necessary labor is unusually low because of established Ford policies.

The labor charge for tuning up the motor is only $1. This includes replacement of commutator case, brush and vibrator points if necessary. Grinding valves and cleaning carbon runs from $3 to $4. Overhauling carburetor, $1.50. Installing new pistons or connecting rods, $6. Tightening main bearings, $6. For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have the motor and transmission completely overhauled.

The labor charge for replacing rear axle shaft, drive shaft pinion or drive gear is $5. All sockets and joints of front end can be tightened for $1.50.

The steering gear can be completely overhauled for a labor charge of $3.50. Muffler repaired for $1.

The labor charge for repainting the Coupe is $25. Sedan, $25. Touring Car, $20. Top deck of Coupe or Sedan can be replaced for a labor charge of $4.

All of these prices are approximate, of course, because the cost of materials needed will depend on the condition of each car. They show, however, the low cost of putting the Model T Ford in shape for thousands of miles of additional service.

See the nearest Ford dealer, therefore, and have him estimate on the cost of reconditioning your Model T Ford. He will tell you, in advance, exactly how much the complete job will cost.

of the representatives of the city in the fight, and Attorney Charles Dresbach, also representing the city, spoke, the first contending he endorsed The Circleville Herald's stand in the matter and thought it wise that the city thoroughly investigate the rate situation.
"I believe they are too high," he said, referring to the present rates.

Attorney Leist said he also favored immediate action, not to put the affair off until the "cool of November," as the waterworks spokesman mentioned.

Attorney Dresbach declared the appraisal of the company's plant here had been made, as of 1926, and that the matter was ready to go to the Ohio Utilities Commission at any time if an agreement could not be reached with the water company.

He cited other cities that have a service charge, however, saying that Circleville has none and that it is possible that is the reason the consumer is paying 95 cents per 1,000 gallons for the first 2,000 gallons used, per quarter.

He opposed the city granting a franchise to the company, however, as did also Attorney Leist, for one year, saying that under the provisions of a recent act a franchise for one year would bind the city up perpetually.

"I would suggest that the attorneys representing the city in this case, meet with the waterworks officials and go over the entire matter, and then submit this to city council," he said. "Council will undoubtedly be ready to meet any time on the matter."

It was this step which was finally agreed upon and the meeting date set for August 2, after which council will attempt to reach a basis of rate-charging with the Ohio Water Service company.

DRIVER IS CUT ON CHIN; AUTO BROKEN IN TWO

F. W. Tweel Escapes Serious Injuries When Car Is Driven Into Pole.

Given Oil Co. truck of Circleville and a Whippet sedan figured in a smash-up Wednesday afternoon at the corner of Northbridge-rd. and N. Court-st. at 3 o'clock. Elmer Hampp was driving the truck and the Whippet was being driven by the owner, F. W. Tweel of Huntington, W. V.

Both cars were going south, and when the truck turned to the left into Northbridge-rd. Tweel who must have been driving fast, crashed into a telephone pole on the east side of the street to avoid a collision. The noise was heard all over the north end.

The impact with the pole literally broke the car in two, with the head light bent back under the cowl, and with the bumper, the spring and shock absorber smashed flat against the front of the body. The car is a complete wreck with nothing much left intact but the steering wheel, which probably was the reason for Mr. Tweel receiving no injuries except a cut chin.

TRUCK LINE IS STARTED HERE

A new Circleville-to-Columbus truck line has been started here with Fred Braddock, of Somerset, as its operator. Mr. Braddock has already moved to Circleville where he will make his future home.

The truck line will leave Circleville at 6:30 a. m., daily, and Columbus for Circleville at 10 a. m., daily. Circleville headquarters will be the Circleville Produce Company and in Columbus, Terminal way.

HOOVER TO OFFER SPECIFIC PLANS FOR FARM RELIEF

In His Speech of Acceptance At Palo Alto, Aug. 11, It Is Found.

ABROAD HOOVER SPECIAL TRAIN, NEARING OGDEN, Utah, July 19.—A specific plan of farm relief will be offered by Herbert Hoover, the Republican presidential nominee, in his speech of acceptance at Palo Alto, Calif., August 11, the United Press learned today.

It will embody a Hooverized scheme of cooperative marketing for handling surplus production and will be interwoven with projects for railroad reorganization and development of the Great Lakes outlet to the seas. It was worked out by the nominee in 3 days of conversation with President Coolidge, Vice-President Dawes, governors Zimmerman of Wisconsin, Emerson of Wyoming, McMullen of Nebraska, and Ham-mill of Iowa, and other Republican leaders of the wheat and corn belt, during his trip to his Pacific coast home. He has been working on the plan for several months. After the conversations he called in his stenographer and dictated it in detail.

Settlement of that matter completes the acceptance speech and it will be mailed to Washington for printing as soon as Hoover reaches his home.

Because of the death of Mrs. Hoover's father the ceremony of welcome planned at San Francisco has been abandoned. The train will not stop in San Francisco and will go directly to Palo Alto, arriving there about 10:30 A. M. Pacific coast time, Friday.

Henry's funeral will be held there that afternoon. A welcome ceremony is expected to be staged in San Francisco after Hoover makes his acceptance speech.

through its representative stated to Council was the rate after the 95 cent rate had been passed. How many pass the 95-cent rate here. Isn't it a fact that the per cent who do is very negligible?

7. Consider everything. The company, The Ohio Water Service company, if you please, admits through its spokesman, that it is not PREPARED NOW TO ARGUE RATES BECAUSE IT DOES NOT KNOW ABOUT ITS OWN AFFAIRS SUFFICIENTLY AS YET. Is that professed lack of knowledge merely a business weakness or doesn't the Ohio Water Service Company WANT THE PEOPLE TO KNOW IT KNOWS!

8. And when it's all over, what kind of water are we paying this exorbitant rate for?

TUNNEY TO FIGHT FOR PERCENTAGE AFTER HEENEY GO

SPECTACULAR, N. Y., July 19—If Gene Tunney retains his heavyweight title against Ton Heenev in the Yankee stadium, New York, a week from tonight, it will be the last time he will receive a guaranteed purse.

The champion has agreed to fight for Tex Rickard next year on a strict percentage basis. Tunney refused to give out the exact amount of the percentage, but it was believed to be somewhere between 35 and 50 per cent of the gate.

Tunney will receive $525,000, win, or lose or draw, for 45 minutes' action in the ring next Thursday night. That $525,000 may be the last big guarantee Rickard will pay. The ticket sales for the Tunney-Heenev bout have not been exactly what Rickard would like for them to be and from now on the boxers are going to gamble with the promoter on the size of the purses.

Years of Service in MODEL T FORDS

Expenditure of few dollars may enable you to get thousands of miles from your old car

THE Model T Ford is still a great car. It led the motor industry for twenty years and it is used today by more people than any other automobile. More than eight million Model T Fords are in active service in city, town and country, and many of them can be driven for two, three and five more years and even longer at very small up-keep expense.

The cost of Model T parts and of necessary labor is unusually low because of established Ford policies.

The labor charge for tuning up the motor is only $1. This includes replacement of commutator case, brush and vibrator points if necessary. Grinding valves and cleaning carbon runs from $3 to $4. Overhauling carburetor, $1.50. Installing new pistons or connecting rods, $6. Tightening main bearings, $6. For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have the motor and transmission completely overhauled.

The labor charge for replacing rear axle shaft, drive shaft pinion or drive gear is $5. All sockets and joints of front end can be tightened for $1.50.

The steering gear can be completely overhauled for a labor charge of $3.50. Muffler repaired for $1.

The labor charge for repainting the Coupe is $25. Sedan, $25. Touring Car, $20. Top deck of Coupe or Sedan can be replaced for a labor charge of $4.

All of these prices are approximate, of course, because the cost of materials needed will depend on the condition of each car. They show, however, the low cost of putting the Model T Ford in shape for thousands of miles of additional service.

See the nearest Ford dealer, therefore, and have him estimate on the cost of reconditioning your Model T Ford. He will tell you, in advance, exactly how much the complete job will cost.

BIBLE THOUGHT

TRUE WISDOM—Hear thou, my son, and be wise, and guide thine heart in the way. Be not among winebibbers; among riotous eaters of flesh: For the drunkard and the glutton shall come to poverty; and drowsiness shall clothe a man with rags.—Prov. 23: 19, 20, 21.

PRAYER.—Lord, keep us from surrendering to the lusts of the flesh.

THE TRIUMPH OF WOMEN

Oceanic flying is not quite such a tremendous sensation as it was, but Amelia Earhart and her two companions seem on their return to have gotten about as warm a welcome as any of the fliers. Probably it was mainly because the people are interested to see a woman taking part in a great adventurous stunt, and showing herself the equal of men in courage.

Women have long been called the weaker sex. They do not average up as muscular as the men, but they seem to have as much or more capacity for heroism and endurance of pain. The younger ones are apt to resent the suggestion of physical inferiority, and they seem inclined to think that if the men can do anything they can.

Such great adventures may be contrary to the old idea that the place of woman is the home and the fireside, but the women folks seem to be getting more and more impatient of any restraints that limit their capacity to do things.

CAMPAIGNING BY RADIO
A great deal of political campaigning will be done this summer and fall over the radio. That way of approaching the people puts a candidate or an orator on his mettle.

While campaigning by speech-making and handshaking, many politicians with superficial minds would make gains. Their pleasant smiles, their hearty handshakes, their fine personal appearance would win votes.

But when you can reach 1,000,000 people by the radio for every thousand reached by a stumping campaign, the politician is forced to a new line of approach.

It is a test for the mentality of the candidate. He must touch the personal lives of his hearers, or they will shut him off and he will talk to the other spaces. We are listening here in Circleville to you Messrs. Candidates. We ask you to be brief, to be logical, and to tell how your party and your plans will help advance our best interests.

PROVIDING THE EATS

The theory used to be much advocated, that eventually we should see community eating places and dining rooms all over our cities and towns, where people would gather together for a common meal, thus saving the labor and expense of preparing a little individual meal in each home.

To a large extent this idea is carried out now, through eating places located near the center of cities and towns where people can conveniently reach them. More people than ever before are eating one or more meals daily in such restaurants and lunch rooms and boarding houses. This saves an enormous amount of labor for the women and encourages many women to do their own housework.

By this means many young women keep on with their business jobs after marriage, since so many of their meals are taken at restaurants.

It has often been claimed that there is no money in taking boarders. But perhaps this is because the women that tried it had only a few of them and did not do business enough. A woman who is a good cook can usually get plenty of customers if she wishes to open up a lunch room or eating place. The people will always patronize good home cooking.

But it takes skillful management to make such a place pay. Some people are excellent cooks themselves, but when it comes to supplying a lot of people each day with food all of which is good, they lack the capacity for detail to attend to every part of the work. People are terribly critical about their food. Those who rushed to an eating place that was reported good, will quit it with equal speed if it runs down. Supplying the people with food is a most commendable occupation. It conforms to the principles of wise business in attempting to supply the public with the things it really wants and clamors for.

A POEM FOR TODAY
By NORMAN W. RALSTON

GRUDGE

Everybody has a grudge
Sometime in his life.
Maybe just a little smudge
'Gainst his friend or wife.

Grows around and soon a fuss
Brews up in his mind
And creates a mighty muss
With a word unkind.

Other people who had smiled
Now are growling, too,
With his feelings he defiled
All thoughts good and true.

"Has a grudge against someone"
All the people say
Now a pleasant morning sun
Hides in clouds of grey.

Grouch! Don't let a single soul
Say you spoiled their day,
Man moves nearer to his goal
When his life is gay.

REFRIGERATORS
AFFORD LEISURE TO HOUSEWIVES

More leisure is the desire of every busy housekeeper. And the housewife who is on intimate terms with her electric refrigerator finds it a tremendous aid in securing this much desired extra time for resting, reading, visiting or entertaining.

"There are a score of interesting and profitable ways in which hours of extra leisure are obtained with the assistance of an electric refrigerator," it was pointed out by Mr. Pettit, local distributor for the Kelvinator.

"In the first place, this type of refrigerator safely stores all the food the family will require for several days. This materially cuts down the time the housewife must spend in marketing. And with all her supplies right at hand in the refrigerator, the thoughtful home maker may plan her meals for several days in advance. This is a great time saver, and is just a question of careful planning.

"On Saturday morning, this housewife spends a few hours in intensive cookery to save time later on. She makes a tasty foundation soup, perhaps. This she strains, cools, skims and puts away in fruit jars in her electric refrigerator, to be brought forth as required, when it is quickly reheated or thickened with gelatine and served deliciously cold in jellied form.

There is really no limit to the delicious chilled, jellied or frozen salads which are so easy to make in advance and have on hand all ready for use when one has a dependable electric refrigerator. Here is a recipe for an easily prepared, delicious whipped cream dressing that will keep for weeks in a good refrigerator:

2 eggs
4 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon mustard
4 tablespoons vinegar
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
1-4 teaspoon paprika
Whipped cream.

"Mix all the ingredients, with the exception of the cream. Cook over hot water until thick, beating all the time. Pour into a jar and set away in the electric refrigerator. Just before serving, fold two or three tablespoonsful of the dressing into a cupful of whipped cream. The remainder of the dressing may be kept for several weeks, adding whipped cream as desired at serving time."

Love's Ecstasy

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

By parking her little car on a narrow mountain road, Alveda Ray, pretty blue-eyed country girl, causes an accident in which Gary Chester, young engineer, and his chauffeur are injured. Chester is taken back to his hotel under the care of a physician. Next day, Alveda, leaving for the city, sends him a four-leaf clover—harbinger of luck. On the train en route to New York, Alveda makes the acquaintance of Marise Renze, gaudily-dressed blonde, who suggests she take up stage work in the city and stop at her home there. In New York Alveda stops at a two-expensive hotel and after several days of search lands a secretarial position with an engineering firm—and there meets again Gary Chester—wearing, in the buttonhole of his coat—the luck charm she had sent him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Chapter VI.

LEDA stood in William B. Lingard's outer office, her startled blue eyes on Gary Chester's face.

Her heart was racing. Breath was catching. Because of the excitement that was surging through her, she was dumb.

"He" had come here! Had business in this office! Fate had thrown the two of them, so strangely met, together again! Oh! this was Kismet! On the lap of the gods it had been decreed that they would have this second meeting, and this second chance!

"Is Mr. Lingard ready to see me?" Gary Chester spoke. His tone was formal. He was looking at Alveda pleasantly, albeit curiously—yet there was no light of recognition on his handsome face! Had he forgotten her so soon?

On the occasion of the motor-smash, had she been, then, but a blur, a fleeting vision, before his uncertain gaze?

"Yes, Mr. Lingard will see you. Go in." Her lips framed the words mechanically.

Then, as he moved forward, passing through the door that led into the inner office, and closing it behind him, she sank into the chair before her desk.

He had not recognized her! She was nothing in his mind but an ordinary office clerk! The thought burned in her consciousness.

And yet—her heart rose again—her four-leaf clover! The wearing of it—knowing that she, his rescuer, had been the sender—must, then, carry some significance for him . . . ?

Or had he thought that she had been too bold? Had he really recognized her, and meant to deliver a snub? She was only a stenographer, like thousands of others in this city, and he, apparently, a man of affairs . . .

"So you've fallen for him, head over ears?" The sibilant whisper of a Spanish-looking girl who was filing some documents near Alveda, roused her, and she found herself looking into a gardenia-white, scarlet-lipped face. That mouth was smiling. The dark eyes were narrow, and set slant-wise. Every one does. Even the boss's niece, who she's worth a quarter of a million. Comes here, tracking him.

THE GREAT WAR TEN YEARS AGO TODAY
July 19, 1918

French and Americans gain in bitter fight, with 17,000 prisoners and 360 guns taken, so far, last allied advance.

U. S. warship, San Diego, is struck by German torpedo off Fire Island, L. I., and sunk after an explosion of the boiler and powder magazine. Forty are missing and three known to be dead.

Battle growing more furious as Germans bring up reinforcements.

IN COMA 200 DAYS
GIRL STILL LIVES

PAINESVILLE, O., July 19.—After lying in a coma for 200 days after she was struck down by a bus at Mentor, O., Miss Helen Buschmann, Lake Erie college student, is to be taken to her home in Westfield, Mass., within two weeks, Dr. V. N. Marsh, her physician, announced today.

Dr. Marsh said that altho the girl's condition had not changed materially in the last few weeks, he believed her in condition to be moved home. She is under treatment at Lake Erie Memorial hospital. Today was the 185th day of her illness.

COLONEL FLORENCE
ILL AT DAUGHTER'S

Colonel J. R. Florence is ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. M. Morris, on N. Court-st. He has been confined to his bed for five weeks and last night he seemed to take a turn for the worse.

ROBBERS STAB VICTIM

CLEVELAND, O., July 18.—George Larvis, 45, a farmhand of Sandusky, was near death today in Lakeside hospital as the result of an encounter last night with two holdup men.

Larvis was stabbed near the heart when he resisted the efforts of the robbers to relieve him of his money and watch.

OCEAN GROVE, N. J.—Mrs. Ella B. Black, treasurer of the Pennsylvania W. C. T. U., told the tri-state convention of the order there was a "national brainstorm of bridge" which years ago would have been considered a sin and that women should be educated away from the game.

the most fascinating man on earth, should drive her till!

Shadows were moving on the frosted glass panels of the inner office, the door opened and the two men appeared.

"In about four week's time I shall hold myself in readiness—" Chester was saying, "and then you can arrange my sailing date."

He did not give one glance toward Alveda. He shook hands with Lingard brusquely, and was off. The latter went to Alveda's desk and lifted the letters from the wire basket, glancing over them.

"You'll do. Be here at 9 on Monday. Your salary will be $20 a week."

Fifteen minutes later she was jammed, just like a sardine, in the crowded subway, one of ten thousand other girls all struggling to go home. Home? Tears ached at her throat when she thought of the little farm where the old folks would be missing her—while here would be congested, rushing city there was not one soul to care—!

Her mind revolted from the loneliness and expense of the big hotel. She must—at once—find cheaper lodgings. Where?

Her thoughts went back to her companion of the railroad journey, the tow-headed kindly—though eyes—Marise!—she'd phone her—Marise might remember her own suggestion, and again be in a friendly mood!

God! how she did want one friend in this great city! Her heart sore because Gary Chester had not recognized her, she felt she could not bear it if Marise, too, had forgotten her—!

At Times Square she struggled through the crowds along the platform and up and out into the daylight. She went into a drug store, found a booth, and dropping a nickel in the slot, gave Marise's phone number with palpitating heart.

Marise herself answered the call. Did she remember the girl she had talked to, in the train, coming from Lake George? Did she! "Why, sure!" Marise gave the number of her house in West 40th street. "Come over at once!"

Because of the cordiality in the husky voice, tears sprang to Alveda's eyes. Someone did wish to see her—someone in this great, solitary, crowded city was a friend, after all!

She hurried across 42nd street and Broadway, dodging the traffic nervously. At length she reached the old-fashioned house in the West Forties, went up the steps, and rang the bell.

As no one came, Alveda leaned over and looked into the window which was close to the door-post. There was a sound of music—

There at the piano, his long white fingers sliding over the keys, was the Englishman, Clive Mortimer. And, with her arm about his shoulders, singing, was Marise . . .

BIBLE THOUGHT

TRUE WISDOM—Hear thou, my son, and be wise, and guide thine heart in the way. Be not among winebibbers; among riotous eaters of flesh: For the drunkard and the glutton shall come to poverty; and drowsiness shall clothe a man with rags.—Prov. 23: 19, 20, 21.

PRAYER—Lord, keep us from surrendering to the lusts of the flesh.

THE TRIUMPH OF WOMEN

Oceanic flying is not quite such a tremendous sensation as it was, but Amelia Earhart and her two companions seem on their return to have gotten about as warm a welcome as any of the fliers. Probably it was mainly because the people are interested to see a woman taking part in a great adventurous stunt, and showing herself the equal of men in courage.

Women have long been called the weaker sex. They do not average up as muscular as the men, but they seem to have as much or more capacity for heroism and endurance of pain. The younger ones are apt to resent the suggestion of physical inferiority, and they seem inclined to think that if the men can do anything they can. Such great adventures may be contrary to the old idea that the place of woman is the home and the fireside, but the women folks seem to be getting more and more impatient of any restraints that limit their capacity to do things.

CAMPAIGNING BY RADIO

A great deal of political campaigning will be done this summer and fall over the radio. That way of approaching the people puts a candidate or an orator on his mettle.

While campaigning by speech-making and handshaking, many politicians with superficial minds would make gains. Their pleasant smiles, their hearty handshakes, their fine personal appearance would win votes.

But when you can reach 1,000,000 people by the radio for every thousand reached by a stumping campaign, the politician is forced to a new line of approach.

It is a test for the mentality of the candidate. He must touch the personal lives of his hearers, or they will shut him off and he will talk to the other spaces. We are listening here in Circleville to you Messrs. Candidates. We ask you to be brief, to be logical, and to tell how your party and your plans will help advance our best interests.

PROVIDING THE EATS

The theory used to be much advocated, that eventually we should see community eating places and dining rooms all over our cities and towns, where people would gather together for a common meal, thus saving the labor and expense of preparing a little individual meal in each home.

To a large extent this idea is carried out now, through eating places located near the center of cities and towns where people can conveniently reach them. More people than ever before are eating one or more meals daily in such restaurants and lunch rooms and boarding houses. This saves an enormous amount of labor for the women and encourages many women to do their own housework.

By this means many young women keep on with their business jobs after marriage, since so many of their meals are taken at restaurants.

It has often been claimed that there is no money in taking boarders. But perhaps this is because the women that tried it had only a few of them and did not do business enough. A woman who is a good cook can usually get plenty of customers if she wishes to open up a lunch room or eating place. The people will always patronize good home cooking.

But it takes skillful management to make such a place pay. Some people are excellent cooks themselves, but when it comes to supplying a lot of people each day with food of all which is good, they lack the capacity for detail to attend to every part of the work. People are terribly critical about their food. Those who rushed to an eating place that was reported good, will quit it with equal speed if it runs down. Supplying the people with food is a most commendable occupation. It conforms to the principles of wise business in attempting to supply the public with the things it really wants and clamors for.

GRUDGE

Everybody has a grudge
Sometime in his life.
Maybe just a little smudge
'Gainst his friend or wife.
Grows around and soon a fuss
Brews up in his mind
And creates a mighty muss
With a word unkind.
Other people who had smiled
Now are growling, too,
With his feelings he defiled
All thoughts good and true.
"Has a grudge against someone"
All the people say
Now a pleasant morning sun
Hides in clouds of grey.
Grouch! Don't let a single soul
Say you spoiled their day,
Man moves nearer to his goal
When his life is gay.

REFRIGERATORS AFFORD LEISURE TO HOUSEWIVES

More leisure is the desire of every busy housekeeper. And the housewife who is on intimate terms with her electric refrigerator finds it a tremendous aid in securing this much desired extra time for resting, reading, visiting or entertaining.

"There are a score of interesting and profitable ways in which hours of extra leisure are obtained with the assistance of an electric refrigerator," it was pointed out by Mr. Pettit, local distributor for the Kelvinator.

"In the first place, this type of refrigerator safely stores all the food the family will require for several days. This materially cuts down the time the housewife must spend in marketing. And with all her supplies right at hand in the refrigerator, the thoughtful home maker may plan her meals for several days in advance. This is a great time saver, and is just a question of careful planning.

"On Saturday morning, this housewife spends a few hours in intensive cookery to save time later on. She makes a tasty foundation soup, perhaps. This she strains, cools, skims and puts away in fruit jars in her electric refrigerator, to be brought forth as required, when it is quickly reheated or thickened with gelatine and served deliciously cold in jelly form.

There is really no limit to the delicious chilled, jellied or frozen salads which are so easy to make in advance and have on hand all ready for use when one has a dependable electric refrigerator. Here is a recipe for an easily prepared, delicious whipped cream dressing that will keep for weeks in a good refrigerator:

- 2 eggs
 - 4 tablespoons sugar
 - 1 tablespoon mustard
 - 4 tablespoons vinegar
 - 1-2 teaspoon salt
 - 1-4 teaspoon pepper
 - 1-4 teaspoon paprika
- Whipped cream.

"Mix all the ingredients, with the exception of the cream. Cook over hot water until thick, beating all the time. Pour into a jar and set away in the electric refrigerator. Just before serving, fold two or three tablespoonsful of the dressing into a cupful of whipped cream. The remainder of the dressing may be kept for several weeks, adding whipped cream as desired at serving time."

Love's Ecstasy

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

BY parking her little car on a narrow mountain road, Aldea Ray, a pretty blue-eyed country girl, causes an accident in which Gary Chester, young engineer, and his chauffeur are injured. Chester is taken back to his hotel under the care of a physician. Next day, Aldea, leaving for the city, sends him a four-leaf clover—harbinger of luck. On the train en route to New York Aldea makes the acquaintance of Marisa de Renze, gaudily-dressed blonde, who suggests she take up stage work in the city and stop at her home there. In New York Aldea stops at a tea-expensive hotel and after several days of search lands a secretarial position with an engineering firm—and there meets again Gary Chester—wearing, in the buttonhole of his coat—the luck charm she had sent him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Chapter VI.
ALEDA stood in William B. Lingard's outer office, her startled blue eyes on Gary Chester's face.

Her heart was racing. Breath was catching. Because of the excitement that was surging through her, she was dumb.

"He" had come here! Had business in this office! Fate had thrown the two of them, so strangely met, together again!

Oh! this was Kismet! On the lap of the gods it had been decreed that they would have this second meeting, and this second chance!

"Is Mr. Lingard ready to see me?" Gary Chester spoke. His tone was formal. He was looking at Aldea pleasantly, albeit curiously—yet there was no light of recognition on his handsome face! Had he forgotten her so soon?

On the occasion of the extraordinary accident she had been, then, but a fleeting vision, before his uncertain gaze?

"Yes, Mr. Lingard will see you. Go in." Her lips framed the words mechanically.

Then, as he moved forward, passing through the door that led into the inner office, and closing it behind him, she sank into the chair before her desk.

He had not recognized her! She was nothing in his mind but an ordinary office clerk!

The thought burned in her consciousness.

And yet—her heart rose again—he wore her four-leaf clover! The wearing of it—knowing that she, his rescuer, had been the sender—must, then, carry some significance for him...?

Or had he thought that she had been too bold? Had he really recognized her, and meant to deliver a snub? She was only a stenographer, like thousands of others in this city, and he, apparently, a man of affairs...

"So you've fallen for him, head over ears?" The sibilant whisper of a Spanish-looking girl who was filing some documents near Aldea, roused her, and she found herself looking into a gardenia-white, scarlet-lipped face. That mouth was smiling. The dark eyes were narrow, and set slant-wise. "Every one does. Even the boss's niece, and she's worth quarter of a million. Comes here, tracking him

Gertrude Perrill were killed and Clifford Decker and Harold Decker were seriously injured in a collision between a Scioto Valley car and the machine in which they were riding. BILL TILDEN, NO. 1, IS DROPPED FROM DAVIS TEAM

AMATEUR RULE BROKEN SO IT IS CONTENDED

Captain of U. S. Team and Ranking Player Out of Big Contest.

PARIS, July 19 — William T. Tilden, No. 1, ranking tennis player in the United States, has been dropped from the United States Davis cup team because he violated amateur rules by writing of the recent Wimbledon tournament, in which he was a contestant, Samuel H. Collum, president of the United States Lawn Tennis association announced today.

Tilden is captain of the 1928 Davis cup team.

Collum insisted in making the announcement that Tilden definitely was out of the cup competition.

The association president said that Francis T. Hunter and Johnny Hennessey had been chosen to play the singles in the Inter-Zone finals with Italy beginning tomorrow and that George Lott and Hennessey had been chosen for the doubles.

The clause of the United States Tennis association, under which the Tilden dismissal occurred today, is the fourth clause under rule B of section 3 of the Amateur rule of the association.

It reads:
"A person may be declared ineligible:

"By writing for pay or consideration current newspaper articles covering a tournament or match in which he is entered as a competitor."

Tilden always had opposed such a ruling as being basis for hurting a player's amateur status. He had several clashes with the association over the ruling, inasmuch as he had written about tennis for several years.

Collum's announcement came after a night of deliberation and a conference this morning with Tilden and other players. Sounds of heated argument emanating from the conference room gave the first intimation that there was civil war in the American camp. Tilden stamped out of the conference angrily, and Collum, pale and nervous, emerged to announce his decision.

SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY

Garland Braxton, the lean, lanky left-hander of the Washington Senators, was the first pitcher to beat the New York Yankees twice this season.

From the way Braxton handled the Yankees' row in those games he seems quite capable of beating the world champions any time he throws his glove on the diamond. Braxton conquered the Yankees on May 30, 5 to 0, and on July 2, 4 to 3. In the first game the Yankees made but three hits off him and only 28 men faced him. In the second game Braxton outpitched George Pipgras, Yankees' ace, holding New York to seven hits.

Two other pitchers have turned back the Yankees twice this season, Sad Sam Jones of the Senators and Alvin Crowder of the St. Louis Browns.

Oddly enough, Braxton and Jones are Yankee castoffs. The Yankees obtained Braxton from the Springfield, Mass., club of the Eastern League and after he had won five games and lost one in 1926 traded him to Washington for Dutch Reuther who has since passed out of the big league.

Ruth Liked Braxton

The Yankees spent two years trying to develop Braxton, but he never lived up to the things Miller Huggins' expected of him. Babe Ruth was one of the few players on the New York club who had any confidence in Braxton when he was with the Yankees.

"Some day that kid is going to be a great pitcher," Ruth used to say after watching Braxton warm up.

The rest of the Yankees had no faith in Braxton and called him a "five inning pitcher." Of a retiring disposition Braxton quietly went about his own way, working on his control, developing his slow ball and learning the hitters of the league.

Even after the Senators acquired Braxton they did not think much of him and intended to use him chiefly as a relief hurler. Braxton began to find himself last season and won 19 games and lost nine, but it was not until this year that he developed into a star.

Braxton is 25 years old, six feet one inch in height and weighs 170 pounds. He is built along the lines of Herb Pennock, perhaps the outstanding southpaw in the major leagues, and in action looks

MORGAN STILL REIGNING AS FIGHT CHAMP

But He Knows He Fought
Martin Every Minute Of 15-Round Scrap.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
U. P. Staff Correspondent
BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 19 —

Tod Morgan, of Seattle, Wash., today continued to reign as king of the junior lightweight division but he bore the scars of a vicious battle with Eddie (Cannonball) Martin, Brooklyn Italian.

After 15 rounds of intense heat, Morgan staggered to his corner exhausted but victorious over the rugged challenger last night at Ebbets field.

Postponed five times because of inclement weather the bout proved worth waiting for and thrilled almost 20,000 persons who paid upward of $29,000 to see it.

Only Morgan's gameness saved his title for him, as Martin started inflicting pugilistic wounds and continued to batter valuable spots.

When the champion left the ring, his face was bruised and battered. He had a deep gash over his right eye and blood was flowing from his nose and a cut behind his right ear.

Game to the core, Morgan took every punch Martin had in his strong, crooked arms and carried on to victory.

With his longer arms, Morgan lashed lefts and rights to Martin's head as the challenger came boring in, cutting up the little Italian. Blood gushed from a cut over Martin's right eye and he was almost blinded by the flow of blood from the tenth round on. Morgan opened a cut on Martin's right cheek in the third round.

The long training grind caused by the many postponements apparently weakened both men.

Animals Eat Less Feed When Shelter Provided

Providing shelter for live stock during the winter months is a much debated question among stockmen. Some believe live stock without shelter come through the winter in better shape than when some shelter is provided. If animals are in good condition, carrying a heavy coat of fat, the heat generated in the body is held in a way to keep the animal warmer than is the case with thin or poorly fleshed animals, states L. P. McCann, associate professor of animal husbandry of Colorado Agricultural college, in an interview on the question. The simple result, McCann says, is that thin animals such as dairy cows, range stock or any class of breeding animals not provided with shelter of some kind, must consume more feed in order to keep up their body temperatures. This extra feed would be unnecessary were the animals given some kind of shelter to protect them from cold winds, snowstorms and rains. Tests conducted along this line with dairy cows indicate that they will produce slightly more milk from the same amount of feed when properly housed than if forced to remain out in the open. McCann points out. In a second test conducted along the same line it was revealed that cows had to be given more feed in order to produce the same amount of milk when they were allowed to go without shelter as compared to the properly sheltered cows.

Embarrassing Moment

The Christmas list had been made in the presence of George, the obnoxious five-year-old. A few days later a neighbor called on the family. Christmas giving was the topic of conversation and the neighbor said to George:

"Whisper in my ear what to get mother."

"You're not on the Christmas list, and mother's not going to start trading gifts with anybody else," replied the five-year-old.

Habits That Lower General Resistance Are Apt to Bring on Ailment Known as "Riggs Disease."

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

ONE of the most disagreeable of the common diseases of adult life is known as "Riggs disease" or "pyorrhea." This is a pus infection of the gums in which the tissues become soggy and inflamed. The gums draw away from the teeth and, without their support, the teeth get loose.

You can see that the pus poured out from the diseased tissues in this region must be swallowed. Taken into the stomach, the infection is carried to other parts of the body.

No matter what may be the location of the tissues where pus is produced, every part of the body is in danger while there is pus anywhere. Every person who has pyorrhea is in danger of other ailments, each of which may be worse than the first trouble.

I doubt if the gums would be attacked by this disease if there were not a lowering of resistance from some cause. Nature is very generous to those who obey her rules. On the other hand, she is very resentful of disobedience.

Before considering what may be done in the treatment of pyorrhea, you should make a survey to find out what is wrong with your habits. Find out what disturbances are involving your body and lowering your resistance to disease.

If I were to outline the rules of procedure in the conduct and control of Riggs' disease, I think I should establish this order:

1. Make a thorough examination of the victim to determine if the gums are free from discharge. If not, use a mirror and examine the gums and nasal cavities are without serious, dangerous infection of the stomach, gall bladder, liver, kidneys, reproductive organs and intestines are performing as they should. Put an end to the cause of pus from disease.

2. Careful inquiry to determine if excessive, fresh air, sunlight, good water and proper food are the habit and necessities of the victim.

3. An examination to make sure that the teeth are clean, free from tartar and other deposits, and without decay or decay.

4. Lastly, to expect some method of cleaning and stimulating the diseased gums.

These four steps are essential to the removal of pyorrhea. Among the agents which may be employed to supply local stimulation, I include the ultraviolet rays.

Of course this is the merest outline of what should be done in a case of the sort. But it is one thing to get at the bottom of the trouble and another thing to have it cured. From time to time I advise you to consult your friend the doctor. Your friend the dentist is another person of almost equal importance to your

L. S. GALVIN, PUBLISHER OF THE LIMA (OHIO) NEWS, SAYS:

THAT without advertising, the wheels of the nation's industries would cease to revolve, bringing about the greatest unemployment ever known to the world.

The science of advertising has created a world. Many of the best known, nationally advertised products have competitive prices as good as their own. We know of an Ohio firm, candy manufacturers, who made a candy thirty years ago, equally as nutritious as goods of today. Yet millions have been made by chewing gum manufacturers, while the above candy has abandoned its making. Advertising has done it.

It is the science of the why and the where of properly placed, properly placed, the right part of their message, and the right time, are the only possible ways to get the message across. There is no question that will produce results, and no question that will not produce results. That is the science of advertising. That is the science of advertising. Animals Eat Less Feed

When Shelter Provided

Providing shelter for live stock during the winter months is a much debated question among stockmen. Some believe live stock without shelter come through the winter in better shape than when some shelter is provided.

If animals are in good condition, carrying a heavy coat of fat, the heat generated in the body is held in a way to keep the animal warmer than is the case with thin or poorly fleshed animals, states L. P. McCann, associate professor of animal husbandry of Colorado Agricultural college. In an interview on the question, The simple result, McCann says, is that thin animals such as dairy cows, range stock or any class of breeding animals not provided with shelter of some kind, must consume more feed in order to keep up their body temperatures. This extra feed would be unnecessary were the animals given some kind of shelter to protect them from cold winds, snowstorms and rains.

Feeds conducted along this line with dairy cows indicate that they will produce slightly more milk from the same amount of feed when properly housed than if forced to remain out in the open, McCann points out. In a second test conducted along the same line it was revealed that cows had to be given more feed in order to produce the same amount of milk when they were allowed to go without shelter as compared to the previous sheltered cows.

Embarrassing Moment

The Christmas list had been made in the presence of George, the observing five-year-old. A few days later a neighbor called on the family. Christmas giving was the topic of conversation and the neighbor said to George:

"Whisper in my ear what to get mother."

"You're not on the Christmas list, and mother's not going to start trading gifts with anybody else," replied the five-year-old.

Habits That Lower General Resistance Are Apt to Bring on Ailment Known as "Riggs Disease."

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

ONE of the most disagreeable of the common diseases of adult life is known as "Riggs disease" or "pyorrhea." This is a pus infection of the gums in which the tissues become soggy and inflamed. The gums draw away from the teeth and, without their support, the teeth get loose.

You can see that the pus poured out from the diseased tissues in this region must be swallowed. Taken into the stomach, the infection is carried to other parts of the body.

No matter what may be the location of the tissues where pus is produced, every part of the body is in danger while there is pus anywhere. Every person who has pyorrhea is in danger of other ailments, each of which may be worse than the first trouble.

I doubt if the gums would be attacked by this disease if there were not a lowering of resistance from some cause. Nature is very generous to those who obey her rules. On the other hand, she is very resentful of disobedience.

Before considering what may be done in the treatment of pyorrhea, you should make a survey to find out what is wrong with your habits. Find out what disturbances are involving your body and lowering your resistance to disease.

If I were to outline the rules of procedure in the conduct and control of Riggs's disease, I think I should establish this order:

1. Make a thorough examination of the victim to determine if the nose and nasal sinuses are without serious catarrhal condition. If the stomach, gall bladder, liver, kidneys, generative organs and intestines are performing as they should. Find out if these organs are free from disease.

2. Careful inquiry to determine if exercise, fresh air, sunlight, good water and proper food are the habitual possessions of the victim.

3. An examination to make sure that the teeth are clean, free from tartar and other deposits, and without abscess or cavity, and without the use of any method of cleaning and stimulating the diseased gums.

These four steps are essential to the removal of pyorrhea. Among the agents which may be employed to supply local stimulation, I include the ultraviolet rays.

Of course this is the merest outline of what should be done in a case of the sort. But it is one thing to get at the bottom of the trouble and another thing to have it cured.

From time to time I advise you to consult your friend the doctor. Your friend the dentist is another person of almost equal importance to your

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

L. S. GALVIN, PUBLISHER OF THE LIMA (OHIO) NEWS, SAYS:

THAT without advertising, the wheels of the nation's industries would cease to revolve, bringing about the greatest unemployment ever known to the world. The science of advertising has created desire. Many of the best known nationally advertised products have competitive products as good as their own. We know of an Ohio firm, candy manufacturers, who made a chewing gum thirty years ago, equally as meritorious as gums of today. Yet millions have been made by chewing gum manufacturers, while the above factory has abandoned its making. Advertising again.

The economists tell us the why and the where of prosperity. High wages play the dominant part in their reasoning, but high wages are only possible against huge volume. There is no panacea that will produce volume, except advertising. Against the old debate, "Does Advertising Pay?" which newspaper men at the dawn of the century met on every hand, has been substituted, "How Much Can We Afford to Advertise?"

Peter Barnum was the colossal advertiser of his time. He was followed by the patent medicine advertiser who pursued exactly the same ratio of advertising to population, and produced marvelous results. With 120 millions of people in these United States, advertising becomes the only means by which they can be reached. On the retail side, the most prosperous merchant in any community is always the largest and most persistent advertiser. We have seen wonderful retail stores here and in nearby cities become peevish at the leading newspaper and cut off its appropriation. We have never known of a single one that ignored the dominant press of its city that has not sooner or later been passed by a competitor, or has itself passed out entirely into new owners.

WE ARE A GREATER NATION THAN OUR EUROPEAN NEIGHBORS BECAUSE WE ARE AN ADVERTISING NATION. ELIMINATE PUBLICITY IN INDUSTRY AND YOU GO BACK TO BARTER. THE LIBERTY LOAN ADVERTISING HAS MADE BUYING OF SECURITIES WHAT IT IS TODAY. THE LARGEST BANKS NO LONGER HOLD ALOOF, BUT ARE DAILY BUYERS OF THEIR BIGGEST BUSINESS GETTER—ADVERTISING.

TILDEN TO WATCH TILT SITTING ON SIDELINES TODAY

PARIS, July 20.—United States started one of her most difficult bids towards reclaiming the Davis Cup Tennis trophy today—the Inter-Zone finals against Italy—minus the services of William T. Tilden, for years the driving force of American tennis teams.

Tilden was barred from the team yesterday and declared to have violated the amateur ruling by writing of the Wimbledon matches in which he was a competitor. He refuted the charges, blamed "New York officials," refused to permit French tennis stars to protest the decision, and today will sit on the side-lines to watch the trio of rather inexperienced players go against the crack Italian team.

EVENING PARTY AT MRS. GOELLER'S

An important social function of July was the evening party to which Mrs. John Goeller, Jr., was hostess Wednesday at 8 p. m. Her guests were the members of her bridge club, and three additional tables of friends.

The house was a scene of loveliness with the masses of roses, ragged robins, zinnias and snapdragons, used in tasteful profusion.

At the finish of five rounds of bridge, delectable refreshments of a summer menu were served by Mrs. Goeller. She was assisted by Mrs. George Crites, and Mrs. Carl Goeller.

Miss Helen Wittich was the highest scorer, and received an attractive prize. Also out-of-town guests, Mrs. Emile Leidich and Mrs. John Corbett, of Detroit, received gift prizes.

The guests were Mrs. John Boggs, Mrs. Hildeburne Jones, Mrs. Frank Bennett, Mrs. George Foresman, Mrs. Link Mader, Mrs. John Corbett, Mrs. Emile Leidich, Mrs. Charles Gilmore, Mrs. Turney Weldon, Mrs. Howard Orr, Mrs. George Pickard, Mrs. Lloyd Jones, Mrs. Clarke Will, Mrs. Leland Pontius, Mrs. D. SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR AT COUNTRY CLUB

A spirit of congeniality prevailed at the very successful bridge tea, and first social event for the ladies at the Pickaway Country club Wednesday afternoon from 2 to 5. The hostesses had expended every effort to make this an enjoyable affair, and with all the guests eager also for its success it proved to be an afternoon that will always be remembered by the women members of the club.

The large porch and three downstairs rooms were filled, but not crowded, with ladies and there was a good breeze at the club all afternoon, even with the temperature in town at the highest for the summer.

Tasteful baskets and vases of varicolored flowers were placed on the mantles and tables throughout the house, and on the porch. These bouquets contained many varieties of snapdragons, delphinium, larkspur, gladioli, shasta daisies, hydrangea and corn flowers. The arrangement of these flowers seemed to add to the hospitality of the club house.

There were twelve tables of bridge players, and these all progressed, playing as one big party. Also one table of five hundred had been arranged for. There were also guests who did not play. After the final progression the two bridge prizes were awarded to Miss Nell Weldon, and Mrs. Ray Bales. Mrs. William Donohoe received the high prize for five hundred. These three prizes were all decks of playing cards.

The refreshments for the afternoon consisted of iced tea and sandwiches, served by the hostesses at the function, Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. T. O. Gilliland, Mrs. R. L. Brember, Mrs. G. L. Schlear, Mrs. Howard Orr and Mrs. Link Mader.

CLUB BIDS FAREWELL TO MEMBERS

The Sewing club of which Mrs. Harry R. Riegel is a member called at her home in E. Main-st. Thursday afternoon in a very informal gathering as a farewell to Mrs. Riegel, who will enter Office Training School, Columbus, O., July 30, to take a course in sectional science. Besides the club members there were present these guests: Mrs. Earl L. Kibler, Mrs. Elliott Crites and Mrs. S. L. David Jackson, O.; Mrs. E. J. Trego, of Williamsport, and Mrs. Carson Dresbach, Kingston, O.

EVENING PARTY AT MRS. GOELLER'S

An important social function of July was the evening party to which Mrs. John Goeller, Jr., was hostess Wednesday at 8 p. m. Her guests were the members of her bridge club, and three additional tables of friends.

The house was a scene of loveliness with the masses of roses, ragged robins, zinnias and snapdragons, used in tasteful profusion.

At the finish of five rounds of bridge, delectable refreshments of a summer menu were served by Mrs. Goeller. She was assisted by Mrs. George Crites, and Mrs. Carl Goeller.

Miss Helen Wittich was the highest scorer, and received an attractive prize. Also out of town guests, Mrs. Emile Leidich and Mrs. John Corbett, of Detroit, received gift prizes.

The guests were Mrs. John Boggs, Mrs. Hildeburne Jones, Mrs. Frank Bennett, Mrs. George Foreman, Mrs. Link Mader, Mrs. John Corbett, Mrs. Emile Leidich, Mrs. Charles Gilmore, Mrs. Turney Weldon, Mrs. Howard Orr, Mrs. George Fickard, Mrs. Lloyd Jones, Mrs. Clarke Will, Mrs. Leland Pontius, Mrs. D. SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR AT COUNTRY CLUB

A spirit of congeniality prevailed at the very successful bridge tea, and first social event for the ladies at the Pickaway Country club Wednesday afternoon from 2 to 5. The hostesses had expended every effort to make this an enjoyable affair, and with all the guests eager also for its success it proved to be an afternoon that will always be remembered by the women members of the club.

The large porch and three downstairs rooms were filled, but not crowded, with ladies and there was a good breeze at the club all afternoon, even with the temperature in town at the highest for the summer.

Tasteful baskets and vases of varicolored flowers were placed on the mantles and tables throughout the house, and on the porch. These bouquets contained many varieties of snapdragons, delphinium, larkspur, gladioli, shasta daisies, hydrangea and corn flowers. The arrangement of these flowers seemed to add to the hospitality of the club house.

There were twelve tables of bridge players, and these all progressed, playing as one big party. Also one table of five hundred had been arranged for. There were also guests who did not play. After the final progression the two bridge prizes were awarded to Miss Nell Weldon, and Mrs. Ray Bales. Mrs. William Donohoe received the high prize for five hundred. These three prizes were all decks of playing cards.

The refreshments for the afternoon consisted of iced tea and sandwiches, served by the hostesses at the function. Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. T. O. Gilman, Mrs. E. L. Bremner, Mrs. G. L. Schickel, Mrs. Howard Orr and Mrs. Link Mader.

FLAYS DELAY IN COURTS AS CAUSE OF CRIME WAVE

Boyd, Candidate For Attorney-General, Speaks At Lancaster Rally.

LANCASTER, O., July 20.—Clinton D. Boyd, Middletown candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general, speaking at a political rally here today declared that the delay in the country's courts is not due to laws but to their administration. "Because of our slow justice," said Boyd, "statistics show that 10,000 murders are committed in the United States every year and that although 175,000 murders have been committed in this country during the last 20 years, less than 2,000 persons have been brought to justice."

Less than 18,000 murderers are now in the penitentiary, and it is estimated on good authority that more than 135,000 persons who have unlawfully taken human lives are now at large in the United States. This is a larger number than all the policemen, sheriffs, and constables in the United States. It is larger than the regular army, and larger than the militia of all the states. "Of the 10,000 murders committed annually in the United States fewer than 3,500 murderers are arrested, less than 1,000 are convicted, and fewer than 100 pay the death penalty."

FARMER IS SLAIN AFTER ARGUMENT

TOLEDO, O., July 20.—A 63-year-old farmer of Point Place was slain early Friday by a passing motorist who was engaged in a chance argument with the farmer.

The slain man was George C. Schonger.

Schonger's wife and his son-in-law, Harold Ragan, saw the murder.

After shooting five shots at Schonger, the slayer ran to a Ford roadster he had left 100 feet up the road, entered it and with another man.

True Economy Is Often Wise Spending

Economy doesn't always mean SAVING money. More often than not it concerns itself with SPENDING. There are certain things you must have for the comfort of yourself and family. Buying these things for as little as possible, without sacrificing Quality, is economy. Only the miser saves by hoarding, the clever man or woman saves through spending wisely.

Our store is especially adapted to the needs of the customer who wishes to spend wisely. Our low prices are made by skillful buying, never by skimping on Quality; you will never find "seconds" or imperfect goods on our shelves. Best of all, our policy of selling for cash means a small saving for you on every purchase, and helps you end the month free from debt.

Hall, a lineman who was electrocuted while working on a fuse box. Hall met death early today as he was attempting to fix the light in St. Columbia's church, which had been put out by the storm.

Mr. and Mrs. George Crites will leave Saturday by motor for Madison, Ind., where Mrs. Crites will remain for a visit with relatives. Mr. Crites will leave there for Newman, Ill., where he will spend two weeks looking after the interests of the Crites Canning Co.

A WISE CHILD—Hearken unto thy father that begat thee, and despise not thy mother when she is old.—Prov. 23:22.

WHEN THE WIND CALLS
A high school lad was picked up penniless in New York the other day. He had run away from his middle western home to go to sea; and he confided to the officers who took him in tow that it was all the fault of the west wind.

He didn't exactly put it that way, of course. What he said was that every morning, as he went about his tasks on his father's farm, the wind came sweeping in over the meadows, clear and odorless with the winey scent of a country dawn. It stirred strange longings in his breast; his attempted flight to sea was an effort to realize those obscure urges.

He was given a railway ticket and sent back home. He may never see salt water again. But the wind will continue to torment him. It is one of the little spurs with which the earth rowels her children now and then, so that they may not be content to become clouds or automations.

There are many similar little spurs in this life; things that stir us to sudden longings for escape, that persuade us that there are rich experiences in the world which our daily lives miss. Yet to yield to these moods—to run away to sea, as this farmer's boy did—is to miss the point entirely.

Consider the farmer's boy for a minute. He stands in a dewy pasture, just as dawn, and the morning breeze sweeps in on him and makes him feel that there are far places and great events awaiting him elsewhere; so he wants to get to sea. Yet if he should become a sailor, and ship for Singapore or Siam, he would be no better off. The wind and the dawn would still delude him, though his ship were anchored at Mandalay itself.

For the truth is that these disquieting hints given us by nature are ends in themselves. They are not meant to be acted on, for that is impossible. When you look down your street on a quiet moonlight night, and the familiar scene is transfigured, so that you feel that life somehow ought to be richer, add more beautiful than you have found it—that, in itself, is enough. Unless you are more fortunate than most you never will be able to indulge the wanderlust that a fresh morning inspires; but to feel your heart beat in unison with the morning is sufficient.

The savor of life is made up of just such trifles. To be able to catch the hints that nature throws out, even if you cannot act on them—that is the secret. That brings conviction that the earth is lovely. It brings understanding—and a measure of deliverance.

NOTIFYING THE CANDIDATES
One of the events of a presidential campaign is always the "notification" of the candidate. Our people carry a certain love for forms and ceremonies into politics. From the importance attached to this notification, it might be supposed that the candidate did not know that the convention had nominated him, until some influential delegation calls upon him and informs him that he has been given this great honor.

Whereupon the candidate, not wholly surprised at this news, which has in some way leaked through to him, responds appropriately in a lengthy speech. Then the campaign is all set for action. If these impressive ceremonies serve the purpose of waking the voters up to the fact that a political campaign is on that will vastly affect their affairs for the next four years, they serve a useful purpose.

HELPING YOUR HOME TOWN
"I like and am fond of my home town," many people say, "but I do not know of anything special I can do to help it. We have organizations which appoint officers and committees to attend to all that."

But organizations and officers and committees can do no more than to take hold and do something. Every time you mow your lawn and keep it looking nice, every time you carry waste paper home and take care of it properly, instead of throwing it away in the street, every time you say a good word for your home town, every time you help make strangers and visitors feel happy there, you do something for Circleville.

SOLACE
Friendship is a priceless thing, Neither gold nor fame can bring. All the joy it means to you When your day seems pretty blue—
Life has had its clouds, and I Almost wished that it would die, Then a Jim or George or Jack Would slap me upon the back, Fill me just chuck full of joy With a, "How are you, old boy!"
I'd forget my blue thoughts then In the pleasure of this friend; He would cheer me up, and say! Soon the clouds would break away
And the sun comes beaming down To alleviate my frown— Birds I never knew could sing Tossed me greetings on the wing—
It is up to you, I'd say, To be happy every day, Friendship lightens every job You forget your dismal sob; Don't let little things destroy Friendships that will bring you joy;
Friends pay dividends each day When they pass you on Life's way.

RESCUED ARCTIC MEN START HOME
KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, July 20.—Rescued from the frozenover bleak and desolate Arctic area, where for days and weeks it seemed they must die in a gallant exploration effort, part of the crew of the dirigible Italia prepared today to return to their homes in Italy.
The men that have been rescued by the Russian ice breaker Krassin have arrived in Kings Bay and soon will be transferred from the Krassin to the Citta Di Milano and thence start on their homeward trip—a trip many had believed never would be taken.

Letters To The Editor
Editor Circleville Herald:
UNFAIR METHODS
The story has been circulated throughout the county, especially among owners of dogs, that the sheriff is responsible for the appointment of Charles Buskirk dog catcher, and that he (the sheriff) is also responsible for the increase in taxes on dogs.
The fact is that the sheriff had nothing to do with the appointment of a dog catcher, the latter being appointed by the county commissioners, and he is wholly under the supervision of the county auditor and not the sheriff. The tax on male dogs was increased from one to two dollars, and on female animals to six dollars. This increase was made by the county commissioners on recommendation of the county auditor. It seems that the latter could not make ends meet on the amount the county was receiving on dog taxes, pay the salary of the dog catcher, and pay sheep claims, and he recommended that the taxes be doubled, which they were, nearly a year ago.

Love's Ecstasy
by May Christie
WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.
ALEDA KAY, pretty, blue-eyed country girl, unintentionally caused an automobile accident in which Gary Chester, young engineer, was injured. Next day Alela leaves her home for New York to find work. On the train she makes the acquaintance of Marise de Rens, proprietor of a New York cabaret, who invites Alela to make her home with her in the city. Alela gets a secretarial position and learns that Gary Chester is employed by the same concern. Chester fails to recognize her. Lonely and downcast, Alela decides to visit Marise.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.
CHAPTER VII.
ALEDA, looking in at the front window of Marise's old-fashioned house in the West Forties, glimpsed the tableau at the piano. The Englishman, Clive Mortimer, was playing dreamily, and Marise crooning a song.
Again that "unwanted" feeling touched the girl. She was still hurt by Gary Chester's failure to acknowledge her. She felt immeasurably alone. Surely Marise, her arm possessively resting on the shoulders of the player, wouldn't want a third party to intrude upon her tete-a-tete? Nothing but kindness, and pity for Alela's loneliness, had prompted the invitation to come here.
Her impulse was for flight. At once. She turned to run.
But at that moment a negro woman opened the front door. The singing ceased. "That you, my dear?" There was a whiff of perfume, a flutter of scarlet chiffon draperies as Marise ran forward through the dividing curtains, into the hall, to greet her guest. "Come right in. You're as welcome as June roses!"
Oh, genuine was Marise's welcome! Happy was Marise's light, thrilling laugh!
Handsomeness she looked, in her ray of red. Her lips matched her dress exactly, her teeth—extraordinarily even—were a flash of white. Even with the sunlight filtering in through the high windows of the living-room into which Marise led the girl, the former looked much younger and more vital than she had on their previous meeting in the train.
"Clive dear, you remember my little country friend, Miss Kay?" The Englishman turned on the piano stool with a lazy air.
"Chawmed to meet you, I'm sure," he held out a white, indolent-looking hand. His eyes, set much too close together for attractiveness, narrowed as he surveyed the girl.
Marise watched him like a hawk. He was well aware of the older woman's scrutiny. He would commit no error, while she was about.
"Here, take Miss Kay's hat and coat, and put them in the hall cupboard, like a good boy." In kindly fashion, Marise fussed about Alela. "Dinner will be ready in two shakes."
"Speaking of shakes," drawled Clive, returning to the living-room after taking away the wraps, "reminds me of the cocktail-shaker. Don't you think, Marise, our little—er—arrangement—is worthy of a fitting celebration?"
"Not in the middle of the day, bad boy!" Marise shook her forefinger at him and seemed in great fettle. Then, to Alela: "I've just given our black sheep a job. He's going to help me run the Harvest Moon, on a commission basis."
"And so we'll drink to the success of the new venture," He pressed the bell-push, summoning the negro woman. "Three oranges—and ice. And make it snappy!"
"Oh, all the nerve!" rebuked Marise. Then, to Alela: "Clive has such a way with him—so lordly and sort of condescending—like all his countrymen—I just can't get mad at him!"
Clive sank into the most comfortable chair, stretching out his long, beautifully-tailored legs. He drew, nonchalantly: "You women over here require a master. His vaunted independence of American females is all rot. There wouldn't be one-twentieth of the divorces in the United States if MAN was the boss as is the case in Europe. And, if you only knew it, women are much happier when they don't get everything their own way, but have to take their orders from the superior will, which should be found only in the male sex!"
"Hence your fatal fascination?" laughed Marise. From a red-leather pocketbook on the piano she quickly pulled out a little mirror and a powder-puff. "But—"
—challengingly—"even if we American women are big bullies, you will hand it to us, won't you, for good looks?"
"Most certainly," Clive bowed in such a patronizing fashion that Alela could have slapped the man. "Given all over Europe it's conceded that American women are handsome, and wear their clothes better than any other women can. Why, then, not take up a graceful position, and stop this eternal Copyright, 1928, King Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Keep a Close Watch on Baby's Appetite
By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health New York City.

THERE are many things about a baby which a young mother is not expected to know. I read of a mother who just presented her husband with the twenty-second child and all the brothers and sisters are living! That mother must know a lot about babies. But the average mother cannot be expected to recognize every sign of approaching trouble, or to properly analyze the significance of every little symptom.
To a trained observer the scales, the skin, the eyes and the temper tell everything about a baby. They mean little to the mother. She is often in doubt. She has many a worry over the infant.
Whenever the mother suspects something is wrong, but does not know just what it is, she should consult the doctor or go to a baby health station for advice. It is not well to delay. Many times the welfare and, perhaps, the life of the little one depends on the right care, applied early. Loss of appetite, particularly, is one of the symptoms which should not be overlooked.
You cannot be governed in your opinion of the child wholly by the appetite of the baby. There may be loss of weight from loss of appetite.
Perhaps the most frequent mistake in infant feeding is the giving of a mixture too strong in its milk content. Reducing the amount of milk and sugar, or giving less top milk may speedily restore the appetite.
This is a very general statement, of course. It must not be considered as anywhere near infallible. Instead of acting on your own account, it is better in every case to consult your doctor and follow the advice he gives after a personal examination of the child.
Another piece of general advice is to cut down the number of feedings. Increasing the interval between them. You know, you have a babe. Use it your meals are too close together. It is the same with a baby. Acting on these suggestions will be likely to increase the appetite and prepare the child for a richer mixture and a larger quantity of food. But don't neglect to seek your doctor's advice if the trouble does not
